Dear colleagues,

We are pleased to invite you this year to our third training course of the series „Science meets Medicine“. This event will again be presented by the Institute of Clinical Chemistry and Laboratory Medicine at the University Hospital Hamburg-Eppendorf and Sonic Healthcare Germany, represented by the Laboratory Lademannbogen, Hamburg.

According to our goal, to present topics from current medical research and its application in medicine, we are very pleased that this year we have been able to win Prof. Dr. Markus Maeurer, a leading researcher and clinician in the field of immunological therapies of tumor diseases, as our main speaker.

We hope to offer you an interesting and exciting education with this topic.
